ARMS LIMITATION CONFERENCE CLOSES WITH SIGNING OF TREATIES

$5000 FINE, 3 YEARS IN PRISON FOR "RED" ASKEY

CARDINAL RATTI IS ELECTED POPE ON SEVENTH BALLOT

NINE NATIONS AFFIX SIGNATURE TO PACTS

Harding Declares "We Have Lit The Torch of Understanding Which Ought To Glow And Encircle The Globe"

Continental Hall, Washington, D. C., February 6.—The Washington Conference on armament limitation and far east questions, having written on the records of time a remarkable list of achievements, passed into history today.

President Harding, who opened the Conference four weeks ago by paving the way for Secretary Hughes' bomb-shell proposal for a sweeping limitation of naval armament, today closed the Conference by predicting that the success achieved here will make possible like conferences in the future to "illuminate the high-ways and by-ways of human activities."

He praised the Conference as having "lit the torches of understanding" which "ought to glow and encircle the globe." President Harding's address followed the formal signing of the five power treaties by the Conference, including the Naval Limitation pact. The Conference adjourned sine die at 11:13.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 6.—Five treaties, admirable product of the Washington Conference, were signed today with a simplicity typically American.

In the stately D. A. R. Hall decorated with the vari-colored banners of the nine nations represented here was observed the ceremony which crowned three months of arduous labor, a labor marked with more fruitful results toward world peace than centuries of dreaming. It was a stirring scene, a distinguished audience, headed by the President of the United States saw the delegates file to a table in the center of the great hall, affix their signatures and then file back to their places around the table which had witnessed so much history during the past four weeks.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 6.—The treaties signed by the nine powers were the Chinese Customs document and the Chinese Police Treaties, giving China a new deal and a new place in the Sun.

The treaty signed by the five powers, America, Great Britain, France, Italy and Japan, was the Naval Limitation Treaty, setting a curb on Naval building by scrapping many craft and the general poison gas and submarine limitation documents. The treaties signed by the four powers, America, Great Britain, France and Japan, were the supplement to the already signed four-power Pacific treaty definitely clearing what Japan's insular possessions were.

When the session opened, applause greeted Secretary Hughes and Secretary of State Hughes and other delegates when they arrived. It was 10:09 A. M. when Secretary Hughes called the session together. "I am happy to announce," Secretary Hughes said, "that the treaty between China and Japan settling the Shantung controversy was signed on Saturday."

The American delegation led by Secretary Hughes affixed their signatures.

then came Elihu Root and Senator Hughes. Senator Lodge followed Hughes. Underwood, After America, Little Belgium stepped up and affixed its signature. The audience broke into loud applause when Great Britain headed by Arthur J. Balfour, stepped to the table. Then followed the other representatives of the British Dominions. The crowd was deeply interested in Sastri the Indian delegate who wore his customary white turban. Balfour signed the treaty twice, once for England and once for the South African possessions.

The Italian delegation, headed by Senator Schander, then stepped to the table and was applauded. Italy signed the Naval, the poison gas and the submarine treaties and the two pacts on China.

The Chinese delegation, led by Sze and Wang, then signed the nine power treaties.

Sarrault and Jusserand then signed the treaties for France.

The Japanese delegation headed by the state faced Kato then signed all treaties. With Kato was Baron Shidehara and Vice Foreign Minister Hinchana.

The Dutch and Portuguese delegations were the last to sign.

Belief Expressed Way Open To Force Bergdoll's Return

Washington, D. C., February 6.—A way has been found to bring Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, millionaire Philadelphia slacker, back to the United States for punishment, ex-service men in the House declared today.

Bergdoll is now reported to be hiding in Switzerland. He fled there from Germany when peace relations were re-established between Berlin and Washington, fearing that Germany would be forced to hand him over to the United States.

Four veterans in Congress have been working secretly for weeks on both sides of the Atlantic to bring about the arch-slacker's recapture. Representative Walter Lineberger, of California, is now in Europe working on the case, while his associates are busy in Washington. They have finally determined on a plan which they are confident will land Bergdoll in a prison in the United States. What the plan is for apprehending Bergdoll the veteran group would not disclose.

BOOTLEGGER "ACE" OF CLEARFIELD COUNTY IS GIVEN SALTY SENTENCE

District Attorney Charges He And His Crowd Were Indirectly Responsible For Karthaus Bank Robbery—Recites Long List Of Operations In Violation Of The Woner Act.

PLEAD GUILTY HOPING TO SAVE HIMSELF

$5,000 fine and three years' confinement in the county jail was the salty sentence meted out to "Red" Askey, known throughout the entire region as the "bootlegger ace" of Clearfield county.

Askey, who lives at Osceola, was arrested about two weeks ago on information made by District Attorney Arnold. who in the court this morning detailed the history of Askey's bootlegging operations, which he said had extended over a year.

A sensational feature of District Attorney Arnold's address to the court was a charge that Askey was indirectly responsible for the Karthaus bank robbery in that the robber were in the rum running business with Askey and had acquired their taste for crime through these associations.

That bootlegging as she has been followed in these parts may now be classed as the most hazardous of all occupations, hereabouts, is now known to all the members of that law defying class but came startlingly and particularly to the knowledge of Chas. Askey, better known as "Red" Askey of Osceola, when he faced Judge Bell in open court this morning on his plea of guilty to violation of the Woner Act, Penna's liquor law. After listening to the statement of District Attorney Arnold concerning Askey's crime or crimes, Judge Bell sentenced Askey to pay a fine of $5,000 and costs and undergo imprisonment in the County jail for a period of three years.

When Askey was called for sentence District Attorney Arnold told the court he had been trying to get evidence for more than a year to convict him. That it was common knowledge, even to the court himself that Askey had been engaged in bootlegging and rum running. That he and his crowd were incidentally to blame for the Karthaus Bank Robbery, the perpetrators of which had been agents and emissaries of the bootleggers and that Fryberger and Test who are yet to be tried in connection with that affair, state that they were led to believe that they were going on a "booze knock-off" when the bank robbery was perpetrated.

He also said that Morgan Shope, who entered a plea of being an accessory after the fact, accompanied Askey on a trip to Ebensburg where a car load of booze was disposed of and that Askey alleges Shope rolled him for the money, trumped up a charge and got a warrant in Clearfield County which should never have been issued, and made him reimburse him for the amount claimed, $300 of which was money stolen from the Karthaus Bank, which Askey admitted was known by him to be money taken from the bank.

The District Attorney also commented on the recent robbery of a government warehouse down in Lycoming county in which it is said two local young men were implicated, one of whom had never before been mixed up in any manner of law breaking and wound up by declaring this to be the most flagrant case of bootlegging ever to come to his attention.

Askey had no counsel stating that all local attorneys approached wanted $200 for undertaking his defense, and he could not afford to pay that amount. He had an idea he was going to get off easy and was badly hit by the severity of the dose given him.

ALTOONA SCHOOL CHILDREN GIVEN PLENTY OF MILK

Altoona, Pa. Feb. 6. (United Press)—The methods whereby school children are nourished with milk while attending classes has been brought to the attention of state health and educational authorities. Other schools particularly elementary, may adopt the plan.

A dairyman calls at the school house here twice a day with half pint bottles of milk. These are distributed among the children and those unable to pay the required three cents, get the milk free.

Teachers say the system has resulted in a general improvement of health in the school children. Many of the latter came to classes hungry and undernourished because of depressed and unemployment conditions.

Bootlegger Poison Is No Respector Of Person; Colored Ladies K. O'ed

That bootleg liquor is no respecter of persons and is disastrous to the sobriety and proper conduct of both male and female alike was demonstrated about noon today, when a couple of colored ladies, hailing from the extreme lower end of town rolled out into Market Street near the borough building into the arms of Chief of Police Hitt and Borough Solicitor Urey, who happened to be conversing at that point.

The ladies were almost too full for utterance and while the Chief seized them and started for the lockup with a prisoner in each hand, the Borough Solicitor went along and acted as turn key by unlocking the door to the bastille.

The ladies were loaded to the gills, in the language of the poor fish but it was a happy jag and then had a hilarious time in their cells until the effects of the booze put them to sleep. They gave their names as Mary Hinton, who says she is the wife of Joe Hinton, better known as Joe Popcorn and Estelle Lynch. Mary blamed Estelle for inveighing her into coming over town and also inducing her to imbibe so freely.

ARCHBISHOP OF MILAN, AN ITALIAN, HEADS THE ROMAN CATHOLIC CHURCH

POPE PIOUS XI

Rome, Italy, February 6.—Cardinal Ratti was today elected Pope on the seventh ballot of the Sacred College. He will assume the name of Pope Pius XI. The smoke signal from the Sistine Chapel this morning was white and shortly afterward it was announced that Achilleo Cardinal Ratti, an Italian, had been elected to succeed Benedict XV.

Achilleo Cardinal Ratti is an Italian and was born in 1857. He was successively Prefect in the Ambrosian Library and of the Vatican Library in 1914. Ratti was created Bishop Letante in 1917. He was consecrated at Warsaw in 1921. He was made Bishop of Adana and on June 13th, 1921, was created a Cardinal by Benedict XV. According to the directory of the Catholic Church, Ratti personally was representative of the Vatican in Poland, residing in Warsaw. Ratti becomes the two hundred and sixty-first Pope since the time of Saint Peter.

He is expected to continue the policies favorable to the Italian Government, which stand for a re-approachment between the Quirinal and the Vatican.

The newly elected Pope appeared upon the Vatican balcony and pronounced his benediction upon the troops and the immense throng which crowded forward. The soldiers presented arms and the crowd fell to its knees.

CLAIM WONER LAW CONFLICTS WITH 18TH AMENDMENT

As the result of an appeal on the part of attorneys for Louis Ferrar and I. Calibrese, of Brookville, yesterday convicted in Jefferson county criminal court of violating the Woner law, which act, passed by the legislature May 5, 1921, will be given its first test as to constitutionality, in the state.

Ferrar and Calibrese were arrested Monday of this week for selling liquor. They were indicted by the grand jury then in session and were remanded for trial. A jury convicted them yesterday afternoon after brief deliberation. Attorneys for the defense alleged several irregularities in the manner of their indictment and asked for a new trial which was denied. In the appeal made today the attorneys for the defense maintain that the Woner law conflicts with the 18th amendment and with the Volstead act as to penalties, etc. The appeal was taken up to the Superior court of Pennsylvania. Meanwhile Ferrar and Calibrese, who were fined $1,800 each and sentenced to one year in the workhouse, will be released on bail. In addition to the somewhat salty sentences given Ferrar and Calibrese Judge Corbett made it plain in his other sentences that liquor law violators in Jefferson county are going to be dealt with severely.

Cash bonuses totaling $191,330, 200 are being paid in thirteen states to veterans of the war, and $156,500,000 more in "adjusted compensation" will be disbursed under legislation already passed, according to a report issued yesterday by the Bank of America. Legislation aiding veterans in one way or another has been passed in every State except Alabama, Georgia and Mississippi. State bonus payments range from $10 to $25 for every month of service, with many States setting a maximum. Bond issues are the most general method of paying for bonuses or other aid.

Pennsylvania veterans will have to wait until 1925 at least before a State bonus will be possible under present legislation, as the pending bonus bill must pass the next session of the legislature and be acted upon favorably by the voters of the State at the 1924 November election before being operative.

The depression in traffic on the Pennsylvania system has resulted in drastic reductions in the personnel of the railroad. The number of active workers engaged in the service of the railroad showed a decrease of 9,560 in the month ended January 15. Total number of employees on that date was 198,525, being the force back to what it was on September 15, 1920, when the total was 198,525. The greatest number of persons employed by the railroad was 279,590 reached on September 15, 1920, and the smallest 185,325 on May 15, 1921. These figures may have some bearing on the increase of operating expenses under government control, when it is charged all railroad executives were not much interested in keeping expenses down, for seven or eight reasons.

Here's one railroad that is not going bankrupt: The Buffalo, Rochester and Pittsburgh Railway company declared a semi-annual dividend of $2 a share on the common stock and the regular semi-annual dividend of $3 a share on the preferred, both payable February 1 to stock of record February 10.

In August 1921, a dividend of $1 a share was paid on the common.

Hens that crow and flirt with other hens, and hens that have spurs and combs and strut and "swank" like cockerels, are among the wonders of the most wonderful collection of fowls in the world.

The owner of this strange farmyard collection is Dr. F. A. E. Crew, the director of the research department of animal breeding, jointly controlled by Edinburgh Scotland University and the agricultural authorities.

These birds, which to biologists are one of the wonders of the world, live in an unobtrusive yard attached to the old infirmary building, unaware of the fact that they are proving new theories in regard to the great laws which govern life.

"I am satisfied in my own mind," says Dr. Crew, "that within a year or so I shall be able to prove that certain hens can assume the organs and functions of the male."

Section Five of the Pennsylvania Motor Vehicle Law, which appears to have been greatly misunderstood, and which it was said would prevent the farmer from bringing his farm produce to town in his Ford without paying the required fee for registration of a motor vehicle is interpreted by the High way Department as follows:

"The fee for the registration of commercial motor vehicles, the chassis of which weighs less than 2,000 pounds, shall be on the basis of horsepower, provided that the minimum fee shall be fifteen dollars."

The definition of the term commercial vehicle, as used in the Motor Vehicle Act, includes motor omnibuses used for the transportation of passengers for pay or hire, or motor vehicles constructed or used for the transportation of goods, wares, or merchandise.

It is the opinion of the department that motor vehicles of the passenger class used only at intervals for carrying goods, wares or merchandise do not come within the scope of these provisions, with respect to the payment of the minimum fee for commercial registration, excepting in the cases of motor omnibuses, which include jitneys and taxicabs, which the Act indicates are registrable as "commercial vehicles". In any registration, but a single set of tags is required.

While "eating crow" may be distasteful to some, particularly to the disgruntled politicians, there are many persons in this state who are actually eating crows. "They are as palatable as guinea hens," was the way one hunter puts it, who had half a dozen crows for dinner yesterday. Millions of crows have invaded this state, and in some sections farmers are setting up a hue and cry over their appearance in such large numbers, yet there is nothing that can be harmed at this time by the crow—and very little damage is done by these black-feathered friends at any time of the year.

Dr. B. H. Warren, of West Chester, noted ornithologist, states there is nothing injurious about a crow's meat, unless the bird should happen to eat some poison; but one is not allowed to put out poison in Pennsylvania now, where in previous years great damage was done in this way.

Mrs. Burdick, who is sixty years old, but doesn't show it, arrived in France in December, 1917, with "Pa," her husband. With a stove which Mr. Burdick, also an ensign of the Salvation Army, rigged up, and a sewing machine which she found and repaired, "Ma" cooked for the boys as they came from the lines, mended their clothes and made new ones out of salvaged material.

"Ma" and "Pa" were godparents of the first division, and from December of 1917 until the armistice Mrs. Burdick baked her pies and made her doughnuts in every sector of the western front, as close up to the fighting lines as they would allow her. The war over, the couple were transferred to France, where they ministered to the soldiers until they sailed for home in April, 1919.

Don't Like Your Face? Change Your Glasses

If you don't like your face, change your glasses.

Such is the latest way of improving on nature. It has its advantages over rouge and lip sticks and it is considerably less messy. Also it goes for men as well as women.

Here is how it works out: "Any one with a moon face can make it look smaller by wearing dark-rimmed glasses and anyone with a thin, hollow face can fill it out by rimless or light-colored glasses joined by a noticeable horizontal nose piece. The nose piece is as important as the rim.

Then much depends upon the color of the hair. A blonde who insists upon light rim glasses, for instance, must be prepared to see his or her face expand. Blondes more or less lose all boundary lines. Rims, eye-lashes and hair cut so little figure that the whole front of the head runs into one face.

It is rather inconvenient to cut off a nose that protrudes, but its dimensions can be camouflaged. A dark, low nose piece and light inconspicuous rims do the trick.

There is a lot more to this latest manner of improving upon nature. Spectacles, for instance, give an older look. That is because the side pieces appear like crow's-feet in the corners of the eyes. Likewise, white skin seems less white if the glass rims are gold or light wine color.

The secret is in setting off the facial anatomy in the best framework. Nature hands out the faces, such as they are, but everyone has to pick out his own frame.

Sports Hats for Next Summer

These Idairé models are typical of the brightly colored things being shown for summer. One of the loveliest of sports hats in the early showings is a gray crepe-de-chine with a crush crown heavily appliqued with vivid organdie fruits. The all white sports hat is most often fashioned of crepe knit—which has a rough but lustrous surface. The sole ornament of the one shown is a huge white gardenia. Rose tulle, wreathed with straw fruits is the media for the fetching mushroom chapeau.

VITAL FACTS ABOUT EX-SERVICE MAN IS COVERED IN CENSUS

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 6.—Compiling the vital facts about the five million ex-service men in the United States is a job the American Legion is now undertaking in its national "service and compensation" drive, recently approved by the Legion's conference in Indianapolis. The drive is taking the form of a census with each state department determining its own dates for carrying out the work.

To lay a foundation for the proposed "rotating fund," to be raised by the Legion for the benefit of ex-soldiers in acute circumstances, is a prime purpose of the census. Each veteran will be asked to specify whether he favors the establishment of such a fund and whether he would be willing to contribute his compensation allotment, if he did not need it, with the passage of bonus legislation. The money thus raised would be loaned to needy service men at a low rate of interest and with no security.

A further aim of the census is to record war disability cases. If a veteran was wounded or gassed, or was sick or suffered an injury in the service, if he has an ailment that can be traced to service, he will register the facts on the questionnaire and assistance will be provided by the Legion in filing compensation claims. Every man will be urged to carry government insurance.

The census takers will also account each man interviewed with the five provisions of the pending adjusted compensation bill and will ask him to name his choice. In this way an accurate forecast of the administration of the bill will be secured. Non-Legion men will be asked to become members, the aim of the organization being to eventually have every ex-soldier enrolled.

To Give Meaning to a Word

The word is SERVICE.

Has it meaning for you? Does it mean clean, comfortable linen? Does it mean clothes laundered in the way that will make them wear longest? Does it mean Monday free from the spectre of wash-board and boiler? Does it mean convenience—a quick call, and your whole family washing whisked promptly away to be as promptly returned?

In order that it may mean these things the modern laundries of the United States last year (1921) invested a sum estimated at $25,000,000 in new equipment and new buildings.

And toward these twenty-five millions we contributed many thousands in order that our patrons, here in this city, might have constantly improved service.

Better washing machines, that make clothes clean by a gentle sousing process, without rubbing or scrubbing; remarkable spinning baskets that remove water from clothes without so much as disturbing a button; equipment for ironing, so fine in its action that it irons even the most delicate laces and silks—these are only a few of the many improvements we have been making in order that our patrons might have the most economical and thorough laundry service possible.

That is why, if you will send your washing to us, you can be sure of washing and ironing that will cleanse and conserve, and save you time and money.

Phone us to come for your next family washing. Your bundle will be called for and delivered punctually, with everything as immaculate as if laundered in your own home, under your own personal supervision.

It is a matter of no little disappointment that Senator Pepper is not favorable to the Soldier Bonus bill, but there is comfort in the thought that the Congress is going to put it through in spite of Mr. Pepper and others who are against it. Mr. Pepper's announcement that he will not vote for the bill is not surprising, as he never was in favor of the bonus and this fact was well known. His announcement at this time is very descriptive of the Pepper way of doing things. Pepper does not cringe, hesitate or attempt to ride two horses. He speaks out in meeting. His strength lies in that desirable quality. Better far for the service men to know "where he is" than for him to attempt to straddle the issue and then desert them at the last moment. Pepper is sincere and while his action is not favorable to the soldiers, his methods will bring respect.

Bootleggers, big and little, are likely to sit up and take notice of the Askey sentence. Askey pleaded guilty, thus throwing himself on the mercy of the court, but there appeared to be very little mercy to be shown. The sentence is unusually severe, but is just in line with what an outraged public has been demanding. Now the question arises, will Askey atone for all bootleggers or are more of them to be haled before the county courts? It is not a pleasant subject for contemplation by a number of our citizens.

Joy of all hopes. We are told that ex-service men in Congress think they have a plan which will return Grover Cleveland Bergdoll to the native land he thinks so little of. May they be able to do so. The deaths of so many of our soldier boys cannot be avenged until the Bergdolls are brought to the bar of justice.

YOU MUST SIGN YOUR NAME

We have been deluged by a flood of anonymous communications again the past couple of weeks, none of which saw the light of publicity. This anonymous letter writing, it has been determined, is a form of insanity and appears to be in cycle or be controlled by the moon's changes like it is said many other "nuts," whose idiosyncrasies move them to demonstrate their lack of a properly shingled curial along other lines.

The impulse to write an anonymous letter or the letter itself is prima facie evidence, as our lawyer friends would say, of a peculiar form of insanity, and in keeping with the diseased mentality which impels the afflicted female to admire his manly form as it is reflected from the show windows on Main street, and moves the shemale of the species to bridle herself in her fiery and within the privacy of her own room march about before and smug and green at her reflection in the mirror.

Anonymous letters always come in floods, which tend to prove the above observations carefully made after half a life time engaged in keeping one eye at least on the foibles and weaknesses of the public, while learn me to print only about one-third about what one finds out about people generally.

To show further just what the poor burdened newspaper man is up against along this line we will tell you that the present batch of anonymous communications embrace a subliminal range that extends from horse stealing to scandal. In between these limits are a treatise on wife-beating as practiced by a neighbor, lack of fire equipment, the condition of the streets, dogs running at large, a certain married man calling where he has no legitimate business, steam bills to high, the price of milk, rents and fire limits ordinance.

We arrived at the point a long time ago where such flood of litigation effort never even jars us, but we want once more to serve notice upon our defective correspondents that nothing gets by without the oysters name thereof, for our purposes only, in order that the "devil" will not have to work so hard emptying the editorial waste basket. The editor has to "daddy" everything he writes and so is every other son-of-a-gun if he gets it in this newspaper.

She wore a beautiful cluster of roses on her breast and two white calves, before a background of farm implements too numerous to mention in the presence of about seventy guests, including two milk cows, six mules and one bob sled. Reverend Jackson tied the nuptial knot with 200 feet of hay rope and the bridal couple left on one good John Deere gang plow for an extended trip with teams to suit purchasers. They will be at home to their friends' kitchen utensils after ten months from date of sale to responsible parties and some fifty chickens. —Clipp-lack of fire equipment, the condition

GREATEST CHINESE JIG SAW PUZZLE SOLVED

BUREAU OF REHABILITATION A REAL ACCOMPLISHMENT IN PENNSYLVANIA

By CLIFFORD B. CONNELLEY
Commissioner of Labor and Industry
Written for the United Press

Harrisburg, Pa., Feb. 6.—(United Press)—One of the most constructive acts of the administration of Governor Sproul was the establishment of the Bureau of Rehabilitation of the Department of Labor and Industry.

That Act, approved July 18, 1919, went into effect January 1, 1920, and from that time to the first of the year, 2,226 persons have been offered rehabilitation service. According to the provisions of the Act any person physically handicapped may receive the services of the Bureau so that he or she may return to some remunerative occupation. The fact that the activities of the Bureau of Rehabilitation extend to all classes of accidents, with the exception of those resulting from the war, broadens the scope of this humanitarian work.

During the two years operation of the Bureau of Rehabilitation 1,677 cases were registered. Out of this number 1,237 came from industry in general, 640 from the mines, 211 from railroad operation and 23 from agriculture. It is found that 82 persons assisted by the Bureau were injured in public accidents while 3 were disabled by disease of congenital defect. It is thus seen that rehabilitation may go to the assistance of persons who are not affected by the Workmen's Compensation Law.

Seven hundred and sixty persons have been assisted by the Bureau during its existence. Figures, however, fail to show the system that has been worked out to bring the far-reaching provisions of the Act in close contact with the individuals for whom it is intended. Only two counties of the State have failed to report case needing assistance; these are Fulton and Wayne. In the centers of high industrial hazards more cases are treated than in any other section. The services of the Bureau were offered to 374 persons in Philadelphia County and 286 in Allegheny County. The mining counties also reported large number of persons needing rehabilitation. Services were offered to 95 persons in Cambria County, 6 in Clearfield; 46 in Dauphin, 35 in Indiana, 38 in Jefferson, 87 in Lackawanna, 160 in Luzerne, 78 in Northumberland, 118 in Schuylkill, 53 in those over 30 have been assisted. The Washington and 81 in Westmoreland.

As soon as the records of accident cases have been obtained from the Workmen's Compensation Bureau and checked up by the Bureau of Inspection, the Bureau of Rehabilitation sends out follow-up letters to the person disabled. They are informed of their rights under the Act; and as soon as possible after replies are received, an adjuster goes from the local office of the Bureau to obtain a complete report of the case, whereupon the applicant is registered.

If hospital treatment is needed, the handicapped persons are sent to the most available institution. If artificial appliances and necessary to restore the person to production, they are obtained for him, if at all possible, in case education is needed along a line different from the former occupation, education is arranged for.

A combination of psychology and practical social service is necessary in the handling of a rehabilitation case. It is a marked fact that most handicapped persons are sensitive about their handicap, and whatever services are offered must be given in the spirit of co-operation and not in the spirit of charitable assistance. The degree of success with which this has been worked out in Pennsylvania is shown in the figures of the Bureau for the two year period. There were 155 persons who were entered in schools for a course of training, 78 of these completed the course. Artificial appliances were furnished 351 disabled persons while 14 were given therapeutic treatment.

Assistance was given in 250 hand losses, 147 arm losses, 73 foot losses, 154 leg losses, and 78 cases of disfigurement. Out of 71 cases of both eyes being impaired only 19 have been definitely assisted by the bureau, showing the difficulty of returning persons handicapped by eye losses to gainful occupations.

Other advantages which are considered important factors in the rehabilitation of the physically handicapped are the age and education of the persons registered with the bureau. A thousand persons registered with the bureau were over 30 years of age; half the number registered under 30. Half the number registered under 30 were over 30 years of age have been returned to avocation, 160 in Luzerne, 78 in Northumberland, while only a third of Cumberland, 118 in Schuylkill, 53 in those over 30 have been assisted. The final settlement of many registered cases may come only after months of convalescence or training or other delays.

In educational qualifications, out of 1,674 registered cases 1,553 received only elementary training. There were 121 persons persons registered who had over ten years of education, while 164 of the disabled never attended school. The number of foreign born registered with the Bureau is 592, of which number 138 are illiterates.

Classifying resources. One day a caller brought her small son, who had evidently never been taught to obey, and the pleasure of the visit was much marred. As the guests walked away Anita stood looking after them and, in a disapproving tone, said: "He certainly is the worst of mander I ever saw."

Marks of Distinction. To be distinctive one does not need expensive clothing. A face radiating mental poise, a well-groomed body, carried with grace and dignity, is its own aristocracy. Every woman can be attractive, no matter what her features may be.

Can Draw Salary, Anyway. The office of British prime minister pays no salary, but the man who holds that office can make himself any sort of minister he wishes, such as chancellor of the exchequer, which pays $25,000.

Takes Will Power. Good intentions can wind the alarm clock, but it takes will power to get out of bed in the morning.—Toledo Blade.

A Book. If a book come from the heart, it will contrive to reach other hearts; all art and author-craft are of small account to that.—Thomas Carlyle.

Letters To The Editor

To the Editor of The Progress:

I read the proposed law of Child Welfare and want to write a few lines on what I and a lot more of the women and mothers in our community think of it.

In the first place what kind of a scheme is it. A money making scheme or just a chance thought of some poor nut or a lot of nuts who ought to be in the lunatic asylum. When we women were given the vote would not that prove our rights in matters that concern only mothers to a certain extent.

Do they think the mothers of U. S. cattle or Bolsheviks? Have the Governors and others who have signed such a piece that they call a needed law, no respect for women. Do these old maids really think they know more about such things than a mother of the average family.

How many average mothers are there who do not possess intelligence enough to tell herself when she needs medical attendance? Its an awful thing our country is coming to. Do you know what this law will cause if it is put thru? It will be a childless country in a few years unless these old maids come to the rescue. Plain talk. Well, we need some Plain talk on this subject. If we mothers are going to raise children, do they think we are going to give over to them what we have suffered for. No sirree, there will be war to the death first.

300,000 MILES OF CABLE UNDER THE OCEANS MAKE NEIGHBORS OF EVERY RACE OF PEOPLE ON FACE OF EARTH

New York, Feb. 3.—The two new cable lines by which American capital promises to intensify in 1922-3 the power of the United States to communicate with the business world abroad will bring the total of the world's submarine telegraph lines well above 300,000 miles and the total cost to approximately $300,000,000, of which about one-third is controlled by American capital.

This promise of an investment in 1922-3 of $25,000,000 for new ocean cables to give a closer business relation across the two greatest oceans of the world, is a mere continuance, says the Trade Record of the National City Bank of New York, of the disposition which American capital has always shown to aid international commerce. It was an American, Professor S. F. B. Morse, who in 1843, after successful experiments in connecting Governor's Island with New York by a short submarine cable made the first recorded suggestion of telegraphic communication across the Atlantic and two Americans, Cyrus W. Field and Peter Cooper, in 1854 organized the New York, Newfoundland and London Cable Company with the purpose of linking the United States with England. The pluck and persistency of American capital was never better illustrated than by that enterprise which, after many costly experiments and apparent failures, coupled with the expenditure of nearly $2,000,000, then a very large sum of money, established the first cable communication between Newfoundland and Valentia, Ireland, over which President Buchanan and Queen Victoria on Aug. 17, 1858, communicated by the aid of land telegraph lines then in existence, with the historic messages, "Europe and America are united by the telegraph; glory be to God in the highest and on earth, peace and good will to men."

The difficulty which American capital faced in that determined fight for close communication with the business world abroad, including the breakage and loss of the first cable laid is further illustrated by the fact that this cable thus auspiciously opened after four years of experiment and millions of dollars expended soon lost its power of service and within a month had become useless except for the practical lessons which its construction and temporary operations taught to the plucky Americans who brought it into existence. Mr. Field undaunted by its failure resumed his efforts and established relations with British capitalists and by the construction of new cables and the application of the practical lessons which had been learned in their laying and operation established in 1866 two successful cable lines between Newfoundland and Valentia, and from that time forward instantaneous communication between the United States and Europe has been continuous.

It was also American capital and energy which established the first cable line across that greatest ocean of the world, the Pacific, a far greater task than that of bridging the Atlantic by cable lines, for the distance is nearly three times as great and the difficulties intensified by reason of the fact that the bed of the Pacific between San Francisco and the Hawaiian Islands, includes numerous mountain ridges many thousands of feet in height and with valleys of corresponding depth. The difficulties of this new and untold field were, however, overcome and communication established from San

Charles W. Seymour, of Hartford, Conn., tendered his resignation as state senator following his election to the membership of the American Legion in Connecticut. Officers of the Legion cannot hold public office which is elective.

A twenty-acre park, known as "American Legion Park" has been deeded by the city of Melrose, Minn., to the men of the city who were in service during the World War. The Melrose Legionnaires have established a children's playground, a tourist camping grounds and a baseball diamond.

Ex-soldiers and marines, members of the American Legion, were the heroes in the rescue work which followed the explosion of a tank containing 60,000 cubic feet of ammonia fumes in New York City. One of the former service men is credited with having rescued ten persons from a basement which had become filled with the fumes.

Francisco to Honolulu, the Midway Islands, Guam, Manila and thence to Shanghai and Japan, the length of the entire line from San Francisco to the Asiatic coast being approximately 10,000 miles, which is now to be paralleled with a second American line, while the new line across the Atlantic is to touch the Azores and thence to Germany. American capital also had placed our various coast cities in direct connection, over American cables, with the principal islands of the Caribbean and thence the principal ports of the eastern and western frontage of South America. French and British capital have also spanned the Atlantic with numerous lines, and British, Canadian and Australian capital have established a line through the Pacific waters from western Canada to Australia, while European capital chiefly British, built up the tremendous cable system connecting Europe through the Mediterranean with India and Australia and along the eastern and western frontage of Africa.

While the life of a submarine cable is now estimated at from twenty to forty years, a considerable number of the experimental lines entirely ceased operation, though the methods of operation have been so greatly improved meantime that the number of messages or words transmitted over a given line is now many times that of earlier days and thus facilities of inter-continental communication greatly intensified, and the cost of transmission correspondingly reduced.

SENATOR PEPPER TO VOTE AGAINST THE BONUS TO SOLDIERS

Washington, Feb. 4.—Setting forth his views on the Soldiers' Bonus Bill in a formal statement today, Senator Pepper, of Pennsylvania said he not only "with profound regret" but "with simultaneous adoption by the American Legion of a policy favorable to this legislation and of a resolution condemning in scathing terms the suggestion that the motives of our fighting men were other than disinterested and noble."

"If an injustice was done to our boys," he said "when their lives were impugned I am forced to conclude that the injustice which is being done to them today is one which they themselves are inflicting."

Three considerations, he said, had caused him to decide to vote against the Soldiers' Bonus Bill on which the House Ways and Means Committee is now holding extensive hearings.

"I think the pending measure is unjust to the disabled man, which said, 'unfair to service men who are not disabled and unjustifiable because it wastes public money.'

"Any measure is fundamentally unjust to the disabled man, which gives to him no more than the allowance made to his undisciplined and vigorous comrade. There is something wrong with a scheme which withholds money from the man who needs it in order to give it to the man who can do without it. I am ready to vote millions for the disabled soldier but not one cent for the man whose earning capacity is unimpaired."

PRIVATE STILL EXPLODES 3 CHILDREN ARE BURNED

HEARING HELD IN SUIT TO TEST THE WONER DRY LAW

The case of the Commonwealth vs. Frank Wasick, the Decatur Township man who was arrested last December by Sheriff Gorman for violation of the liquor law and whose three barrels of mash, jug full of manufactured liquor and still was seized, was argued before Judge Bell this morning on the motion of Wasick's attorneys O'Laughlin, Fenerty and Kelley who are making a test of the "search and seizure" action of the sheriff and his deputies.

Wasick's attorneys hold that the entering of his home and the seizure of the articles enumerated were illegal and a violation of his constitutional rights and accordingly asked the court to order the property returned while restraining the District Attorney from using any part of the evidence secured at the time of the arrest in the trial of Wasick for violation of the liquor law, as there was no authority under the Volstead Act for a search warrant in Pennsylvania.

District Attorney Arnold is fighting the motion and maintains that inasmuch as the sheriff was executing a warrant on information charging a violation of the law he was within his rights in gathering what was incidental evidence of such violation he found on the premises and said that only unreasonable search and seizure was prohibited in Pennsylvania.

Judge Bell took the case under advisement and said he would endeavor to determine the question before the grand jury completed their labors. He said there was bad law on both sides of the liquor question until the minds of the people became perverted to suit their individual feelings in the matter.
